CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Early Submission Deadline: March 5, 2021

Regular Submission Deadline: May 14, 2021

We are pleased to announce that CRCP2020, sponsored by the Caribbean Alliance of National Psychological Associations - CANPA, has been re-scheduled due to the COVID-19 global pandemic and will now take place November 16th-19th, 2021, in St Croix, US Virgin Islands. This conference is a continuation of the historic CRCP2011 in Nassau, Bahamas, the inaugural CANPA conference in Suriname in 2014, followed by Haiti in 2016, and most recently Jamaica in 2018.

The conference theme, "Caribbean Resilience: Regional Psychology's Response to Historical and Contemporary Disasters," seeks to stimulate and promote psychological theory, practice, research, assessment and training that are relevant to meeting the needs of the diverse communities within the Caribbean. Such a psychology embraces psycho-historical, psycho-social, ethnic, cultural, economic, linguistic, family composition and intellectual realities of Caribbean societies. While acknowledging the contributions of Euro-American psychology and other worldviews, the intent of the conference is to promote the development of a contextual psychology that can effectively address the psychological challenges of Caribbean people. Historical and contemporary disasters have resulted in cumulative impacts on the peoples and the land of the Caribbean. Yet, a persistent resilience endures that warrants investigation, affirmation and culturally appropriate inquiry. As Caribbean current realities are explored, there will be an appreciation for the rich heritage of Caribbean nations and an examination of colonialism, slavery and indentureship and their impact on Caribbean societies. This transformation will move psychologists, and those in related fields, forward in appropriating a unified psychological framework to the realities of residents in the Caribbean as well as those in the diaspora. We invite papers from the various disciplines that explore the themes and subthemes of the CRCP 2020+.

CRCP2020+ invites abstracts that embrace and affirm the past and present realities of the Caribbean peoples, and promote their prospective physical, mental and social health and overall well-being. Abstracts from psychologists, other social scientists and educators as well as students, and those working in related fields--within the region, the Caribbean Diaspora, and from around the world--are welcome.

The conference theme is CARIBBEAN RESILIENCE: REGIONAL PSYCHOLOGY'S RESPONSE TO HISTORICAL AND CONTEMPORARY DISASTERS. Abstracts are welcome on any of the following five sub-themes, or on other topics that are embodied in the overall conference theme that are not captured in the sub-themes and topics below.

SUBMITTING AN ABSTRACT & INFORMATION

FORMATS

Abstracts are required for all formats. All poster, paper, and roundtable abstracts must include a title (10 words maximum), a summary of no more than 250 words, and a 50-word abstract that will be listed in the program. Symposium abstracts must include a symposium title, a symposium abstract of no more than 250 words, and separate titles and abstracts (50 words maximum) for each presentation.

- 1. Poster Presentation. Information will be displayed on a 48"x36" poster board and the presenter will be present during the time of the poster session to answer questions. Tips for poster presentation format and display will be available online for presenters. Several posters will be presented together in each poster session.
- 2. Paper (12 minutes). This is a talk to present an idea, model, or study. Paper presentations will be grouped by the conference organizers into topically related sessions of 4 papers (55 minutes total). Individual papers may also be re-assigned by the program committee as poster presentations.
- 3. Symposium (60 minutes). Each symposium generally includes three (3) or four (4) 12-minute talks on a common topic, followed by a discussion period, based on the conference theme and subthemes. Submissions are presented together and include Title, Symposium Abstract, Chair and Discussant names, and presenter names along with each presentation title and short abstract. Multi-disciplinary symposia are welcome; note however, that the convenor of the symposium must be a psychologist.
- 4. Roundtable (60 minutes). A roundtable is a presentation/discussion with interested participants on a specific topic. The Presenters will present background on the topic, and elicit questions and comments from individuals at the table. In this format, presenters will open a discussion on a topic relevant to the conference theme and subthemes with brief remarks and facilitate a guided, interactive discussion with the roundtable participants.

SUBMITTING AN ABSTRACT

Abstracts are submitted online at : www.CRCP2020.org. Please follow the instructions for the type of format that is relevant to your submission. Only abstracts submitted online will be considered.
